Fifty-three New Freshmen Begin College Courses

Rector Stresses Need Of Liberal Education

"Americans of today are realizing more fully the importance of liberal education in the training for life," said the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President of Loyola College, in a recent interview.

"If democracy is to be preserved and if it is to progress, the members of the democratic state must understand their responsibilities," he continued.

Philosophy Is The Basis

"This knowledge must be gained through the study of the humanities," Father Bunn asserted. "Here man has opened to him the true nature of the world and the very nature of man himself. Our scholastic philosophy is the basis for this self-understanding."

"We now have one hundred and forty students enrolled in the School of Adult Education," Father Bunn continued. "This is most encouraging, especially since these people are attending night courses during the summer."

Americans Want Education

"It is my firm belief," Father Bunn declared, "that the average American is beginning to realize more fully his personal and social responsibilities. Hence he wishes to widen his acquaintance with the classics and other arts."

Realizing that there are many factions in America today, who are advocating the continuance of compulsory military service after the war, we questioned Father Bunn at length on the topic.

Plan Not Necessary

Father Bunn does not believe that such a plan is necessary for America. He is convinced that if the high schools and colleges of our land will fulfill their duties in regard to training American youth,

Former Regents Become Priests

Four former professors of Loyola College were ordained priests of the Society of Jesus by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington, on Sunday, June 18.

The four new priests, who taught at Loyola as scholastics, are: the Rev. David Burke, S. J., the Rev. William J. Devlin, S. J., the Rev. John G. Fay, S. J., and the Rev. Charles G. Neuner, S. J.

The ordination ceremonies took place in the community chapel at Woodstock College, Maryland. The ordination class was the second largest ever ordained in the history of Woodstock College.

Native Of Philadelphia

Father Burke was born in Philadelphia. He entered the Society of Jesus at Wernersville Jesuit Novitiate, Pennsylvania, in September 1931. He studied philosophy and theology at Woodstock.

While at Loyola, Father Burke was Assistant Dean of Discipline. He celebrated his first solemn Mass on June 25, at the Church of the Holy Angels in Philadelphia.

Father Devlin entered the Society at St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in August, 1931.

Was Greyhound Moderator

While at Loyola, Father Devlin was Moderator of THE GREYHOUND. He was also professor of English and Latin. Father Devlin celebrated his first Solemn Mass at the Church of St. Luke in Glenside, Pennsylvania.

Father Fay is a native of New Jersey. He entered the Society of Jesus at St. Andrew-on-Hudson in 1933.

He went to Woodstock College for Theology in 1936. While at Loyola, Father Fay taught Biology. He celebrated his first solemn Mass at the Church of Our Lady Star of the Sea in Atlantic City, N. J., on June 25.

Father Neuner Is Baltimorean

Father Neuner is the only Baltimorean of the group. His mother resides at 1430 Patapasco Street, Baltimore. Father Neuner entered the Order at St. Andrew-on-Hudson in July, 1931.

Reilly Carries Soph Elections

John Reilly was elected president of the Sophomore Class in an election held on July 27. George Bardleman was elected vice-president, John Ahlers was elected secretary and John Seifert was voted treasurer.

According to the rules for the election of class officers laid down by the Student Council, a nomination meeting was held on July 25.

At this meeting a mimeographed list of the members of the class was given to each student in the class. The voter then checked off seven names of men in his class. The seven students who received the most votes were then nominated.

From this number, the class officers were elected. The meeting was presided over by Donald Giblin, president of the Student Council.

Reilly has appointed John Krager as head of the Vigilance Committee which will regulate the affairs of the First Year men for the next few weeks.

The job will be a particularly hard one this year due to the fact that the sophomores are outnumbered by the freshmen.

Rector Interview

we need never contemplate such a plan of military service during peace time.

Like most educators, Father Bunn stressed the great need of the family, as he continued, "Today we in America have come to realize that the core of the democratic state is the family. The family must be preserved and such preservation can be best accomplished by teaching man his social responsibilities."

Democratic Education Needed

"This means the citizens of democracy must be educated for democracy."

Father Bunn further explained, "Man must possess self realization. He must also possess self determination. This self determination must necessarily be intelligent, for this is the basis and life of democracy."

Next arose the question of post-war education, not of youth, but of the veterans of this World War II.

Veterans Will Do Well

Father Bunn expressed the belief that the veterans of this war would fare quite well. He stressed the fact that the G. I. Bill of Rights has made some very considerate allowances for our soldiers.

As many of our veterans will not be able to attend day college due to their other responsibilities, Father Bunn expects the night courses to be of increasing importance.

Bill Is Important Factor

"One of the most important phases of this bill is that the institution, where the veterans will study, can be chosen by the man himself, providing that the institution is nationally accredited," said the Rector.

Dewey Is Favorite Candidate; Accelerated Course Preferred

Sixty per cent of the students of Loyola College favor the election of Governor Dewey as President of the United States in November, but eighty-three per cent think that President Roosevelt will be elected for a fourth term. This fact was revealed in the latest student poll conducted by THE GREYHOUND.

The first question on the poll was: If you voted in the national elections in November would you vote for Dewey or Roosevelt? To this, 60% said they would vote for Dewey and 40% preferred Roosevelt.

To the second question: As affairs stand now, do you think that President Roosevelt will be re-elected in November. 83% voted affirmative and 17% voted negative.

Five Receive Commissions

Five former students of Loyola College received their commissions as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve. They were graduated from Camp MacDonough, Plattsburg, N. Y., on June 27.

The newly commissioned officers are: William Bavis, John Gittings, Paul Huppman, Constantine Klosteridis and Harold A. Molz, all of the Class of 1944.

Three Receive Diplomas

By virtue of credits given them at the Navy Colleges, Bavis, Gittings and Molz were able to qualify for degrees at Loyola College in March.

All of the new Ensigns enlisted in the V-1 program of the Naval Reserve during their second year at Loyola College. They were called to active duty on July 1, 1943. They pursued courses at Navy Colleges under the V-12 program. Gittings was stationed at Villanova and the rest attended Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg, Md.

Bavis Active In Debating

While at Loyola, Ensign Bavis was president of the Jenkins Debating Society and of the Dramatic Society. He was graduated magna cum laude with an A. B. degree.

Ensign Gittings received a B. S. II degree. He was active in Dramatics and the Accounting Club.

Ensign Molz was Editor-in-Chief of THE GREYHOUND from January, 1943 until his induction in July. He was also active in Sodality and Dramatics. He received an A. B. degree, summa cum laude.

Staff Changes

armed forces last month, and it was necessary to appoint other members of the staff to fill their places.

New Office Created

The office of Rewrite Editor was created and Frank Cashen, formerly of the Sports staff, was appointed to this position. John M. Krager was named Business Manager, William C. Rogers was appointed Copy Editor and Robert E. Hiltz was made Headline Editor.

Joseph Heinekamp, formerly Office Manager of THE GREYHOUND, was appointed Photo Editor and Henry Eckhardt was named Exchange Editor. Paul Muth is new Office Manager.

Work on the issue of August 10 began the week after the banquet. At the beginning of the new term in July, 17 freshmen applied for membership on the staff.

The former members of the staff, besides the Editor, who have entered the service are: Richard Lerch, Frank Goldsmith, Paul Boggs, Alban Eagers, James O'Neill, James Turner, Alex Burke, Thomas Gisriel, Edward Hart, James Shimek, William Codd, William Thaler and Bernard Morenz.

Majority Would Return

The third question in the poll asked: If you are drafted before finishing College, would you want to return after the war to complete your education? To this question, 85% replied yes and 10% said no, while 5% were undecided.

The next question was along the same line of thought. Do you favor an accelerated course after the war and if so, do you favor it only for returning veterans or for both returning veterans and recent high school graduates?

Most Favor Accelerated Course

Forty-five per cent favor an accelerated course for everyone after the war. Thirty-five per cent would prefer no accelerated course at all, and 20% favor a speed-up course only for veterans.

This is indicative of the trend toward a compression of the pre-war four year course into a shorter period of time. Although most do not favor a return to the regular four year schedule, some would prefer a longer period of time than two years for the completion of a College education.

Compulsory Athletics Favored

The fifth question in the poll asked: Do you favor compulsory athletics for all students? Fifty-five per cent answered this question in the affirmative while 45% registered a negative vote.

A system of compulsory athletics is now enforced at Loyola College. One of the requirements for receiving a diploma is participation in at least one athletic extra-curricular activity.

Should U. S. Annex Territory?

Question number six was: Do you think the United States should annex any territory after the end of the present war? Fifty-five per cent replied that the United States should annex territory taken from the Axis.

Some of those who replied in the affirmative, wrote in beside their answer that this territory should be restricted to such islands as Japan now possesses in the Pacific. Forty per cent voted negative to this question and five per cent were undecided.

Few Know Senate Candidates

The next question asked the names of the Republican and Democratic candidates who will run for the U. S. Senate in November. As was expected, few knew the names of those who were elected in the primaries. Fifty per cent did not know either the Democratic or Republican candidate. Thirty-five per cent knew only that Tydings was the Democratic nominee and but 15% knew that Randall was the Republican candidate.

Question eight asked which party would you support in this contest? Eighty-five per cent would vote for Tydings and 15% for the Republican nominee.

Families Read Greyhound

The final question on the poll was: Do other members of your family read The Greyhound consistently? Eighty per cent answered yes and 20% answered in the negative.

Five changes in the Loyola College faculty have taken place since the last semester.

These changes, as announced by the Very Rev. Vincent L. Keelan S. J., provincial of the Maryland Province of the Society of Jesus, are:

The Rev. J. F. Donceel goes to Fordham University as a professor in the graduate school.

The Rev. J. J. Heenan to Canada to teach Theology.

The Rev. S. J. Kirsch to Tertianship at Pomfret, Conn.

The Rev. J. J. Brady (from Gonzaga High, Washington) to Loyola College to become assistant professor of Chemistry.

Mr. V. F. Beatty to Woodstock to study Theology.

Was Professor In Psychology

While at Loyola College, Father Donceel was professor of Psychology and French. Besides conducting his regular courses, he inaugurated a series of lectures on Psychology. In the fall of 1940, Father Donceel gave a series of four lectures on "Psychology of Character," devoting the first two to the psychology of the Dutch psychologist, Gustav Heymans. The third and fourth lectures treated the system of the Austrian Psychologist, Alfred Adler.

Another innovation introduced by Father Donceel, was a series of round table discussions on Characterology. These discussions were attended by many well-known educators from Maryland and neighboring states.

Father Donceel, a native of Belgium, received most of his education in that country. While at the University of Louvain, he was awarded the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Educational Psychology.

Mr. Beatty Leaves

Mr. Beatty, an enthusiastic follower of any Greyhound sports team, and long known for his congenial wit, both in and out of the classroom, will be sorely missed by the student body.

Father Hauber, S. J., head of the Chemistry department, will teach those subjects formerly taught by Mr. Beatty, Organic and Physical Chemistry. Father Brady is teaching Inorganic Chemistry to the freshmen.

Father Kirsch will remain at the College until September and will continue his classes in Physics. In September he will move on to Tertianship at Pomfret, Conn.

Father Heenan has been at Loyola since 1942 and was professor of Senior Theology and Logic. He will go to the Jesuit Seminary at Montreal, Canada, to teach theology.

Life At Ocean City: "It Was Too Noisy"

It's really surprising what a little Ocean City night life will do to the human nerves. To illustrate our point we relate an incident reported by our Ocean City correspondent:

One of the men-about-college, suffering from a slight attack, was seen outside of a small pharmacy.

"What's the matter," a fellow Samaritan asked.

"Nothing; I went to get a Bromo but I couldn't stand the fizzing. It was too noisy."

As Watchdog III gets a free trip to the city limits by rail, a new informer takes typewriter in hand to make the lives of his fellow classmates as miserable as possible.

Every time a new Watchdog takes over, there is always a group of students who say they know for sure who he is. Well, this time they're wrong because no one knows who the Watchdog is . . . not even the Watchdog himself.

OCEAN CITY-zens—George Bardleman was one of the Ocean Citizens of the recent prolonged (two week) recess. He and Dolores threw quite a party and invited half of the Loyola Summer Colony. Afterwards John Ahlers and company made an attempt to find out how deep the Ocean City sand is. Andy Sosnowski and Tim (I was a good boy) Parr must know a good black market for shoes; they practically wore out the boardwalk too. Boots (Purple Heart) Connolly and Charlie Meagher had trouble catching their shut-eye because of Henry (The Duke is all right but Ocean City is better) Eckhardt's nightly forays at the Surf Villa. Joe (Beano) Bronushas left O. C. ahead of schedule due to some unexplained attraction in Baltimore. Clinton (if you want to buy a good car, I've got it) Bamberger was seen with a certain Kate. (For further details see John (The name is Lithgow) Krager.) John Seifert has a pretty novel explanation for the scar on his head received while on active duty on the beach. Howard (Bud) Strott was missed at the big city. Rumor says he spent 18 out of 19 days at a certain Newburg Heights resort. John (the Admiral) Kernan ran successful competition with the local bus companies from O. C. to Baltimore.

NEW TERM-itis—Mike (I'm always in Kernan's hair) Molloy and Father Walsh, of I-hope-you're-not-like-the-Dutchman—etc. fame, have been hitting it off nicely . . . stick in there Mike, you'll make the grade. Knobby (I'm good at baseball) Harris is getting a big kick out of Father Ayd. We wonder if the feeling is mutual. Is it really true that Larry (Nails) Bockstie has imported a new geranium plant? We wonder how Reds (I knew I'd be president sooner or later) Giblin and his Prom Queen are making out these days.

OVERHEARING THINGS AGAIN—Herb (Epaulets) Prescott should keep his date book straight. It doesn't help any to have two dates the same night with two different girls . . . even though their names do sound something alike. E. Cuyler (Bimmie) Jackson seen testing his underwater endurance. Those rocks were pretty sharp too . . . hurt his foot. Sal (The Dancing Master) Cammarata is sorry he won that Jitterbug contest the other night. All the other contestants got an autographed photo of the mayor. All he got was a loving cup. E. Matthew (Medals) Rehak is still in good favor with the students at St. Joseph's Nurse Home.

FRESH MEN DEPARTMENT—Stewart (the Great) Koehler has post-war plans which include opening branch restaurants in Canada . . . "Good Neighbor" policy? Preston (I'm going to be a good boy this year) Scheffenacker is turning into an Oriental Lotus-eater. Couldn't be that Washington climate, could it? Bill Taylor insists that the prices at Oregon are too high for a young man working his way through college. Raymond (Postman) Buchanan has a novel excuse for avoiding hazing—appendicitis, he claims. We also see Big Bill Fannon reviving Vince Bagli whenever he thinks of Chessie—family favor maybe?

Loyola And The Peace

The greatest war in the history of mankind will soon be entering its final stages. After the last shot has been fired, the largest armies and navies that the world has ever seen will begin to be demobilized.

Veterans of the present war at Loyola College, now numbering five, will increase as the war approaches its conclusion and may, after the final peace, be numbered among the hundreds. Millions of young men, now in the armed forces, are realizing for the first time in their lives the true importance of education. Literally thousands of these veterans, equipped with government funds, will turn to a liberal arts college, such as Loyola, for their post-war education.

For the past three years Loyola College has been preparing for the peace. The Department of Adult Education, instituted last year and now rapidly expanding, will serve the needs of those who care only to take certain courses in the evenings after regular employment.

Many others will enter regular courses leading to degrees in the arts and sciences. Thus they will equip themselves and their country to better meet the needs of the post-war world.

Hardly a week goes by that this office does not receive a letter from some undergraduate of Loyola who was inducted into the armed forces. Almost invariably he expresses the intention of returning to Loyola after the war to complete his interrupted education.

We, here at Loyola, look forward to the day when the cafeteria will again be filled with students; when the College will have, in addition to young men recently graduated from high school, scores of former soldiers and sailors completing their college education.

Loyola, like few colleges of its size, has been able to survive the war, without government aid. More than that—more than merely survive—Loyola has taken many steps forward and has laid the groundwork which will enable her to offer all facilities to the veterans of this war immediately after the peace has been declared.

The School of Adult Education, a comparative newcomer to the educational system of America, is but one of the opportunities almost 'made to order' for the returning veteran.

We, who are privileged to attend Loyola at present, shall strive to keep the College running in the best possible order, scholastically as well as extra-curricularly, until that glorious day of final victory.

Condolences

The Navy Department recently announced the death of George W. Schuncke, '41, USNRAF. We wish to extend our deep sympathies to his family and friends, and promise that he will not be forgotten in our prayers. With his death the fourteenth gold star will be added to the Loyola College Service banner.

Summer Issue

For the second time in its history, THE GREYHOUND staff has managed to overcome the traditional Baltimore heat to produce a mid-summer issue. One glance at the mast-head will show something of the changes of the staff, since the issue of May 12.

Quite a few names have disappeared from the roster of THE GREYHOUND. These men have entered the armed forces of the nation. It is not improbable that there will be other changes in the staff roster before the next issue of Loyola's student publication.

Notwithstanding these and other difficulties which must be faced by a College newspaper in war-time, the staff of THE GREYHOUND will continue to do its utmost to turn out one of the best College publications in the country at our regular schedule of once every three weeks.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have contributed so generously to THE GREYHOUND Scholarship Fund. However, this fund still falls short of its mark.

It takes but a few minutes to place a small contribution in an envelope along with a short note saying: "Here is my contribution to THE GREYHOUND Scholarship Fund", and address it to Loyola at Evergreen. Every alumnus of Loyola would like to found a scholarship, personally. Here, then, is a way in which every alumnus can contribute to a single scholarship. It is our hope that as many as can will contribute to that fund.

The Reader's Right

Dear Father d'Inwilliers,

I would like to take this opportunity to drop you a few lines on the "Miami Front."

This town is really a crossroad for Loyola Navy men. This is mainly due to the presence of the Subchaser Training School. The most likely meeting place is the Gcsu Church at Sunday Mass.

During my nine months stay here, I have seen J. M. Burnes, Walt Chimiak, John Wiegard, Charlie Hemelt, Earl Hanson, Carroll Feeley, Tom Cinnamon, and Cory Walker, all of the Navy.

Captain (and Mrs.) Alban Clautice, U. S. A. A. F., is stationed here and is flying cargo to India, which is quite a little hop. The other boys passed through rather rapidly, so I saw little of them.

Pan American keeps us rather busy with exams on various subjects, ranging from Navigation to Customs Regulations. Needless to say, this takes up most of our time between flights. The standards here at Pan American are very high, so I really appreciate the training I received at Loyola.

I will not be able to get home until 1945, but at that time, I certainly will drop in and say hello. Please extend my greetings and best wishes to Father Higgins and Father Delaney and the other professors who helped make my stay at Loyola such a pleasant one. I really miss the Philosophy course, which I really enjoyed, in spite of the arguments of Hall and Weinberg.

Sincerely yours,
Charles Hawkins, '42

Editor, THE GREYHOUND,

I am writing from Italy in receipt of your issue of March. In this issue you list me in the grade of Major U. S. A. A. F. Many thanks for the honor you have done me, but I have not as yet attained that rank. My most recent promotion dated 29 of January 1944 was to the rank of Captain. However, I do hope to be able to live up to your editorial and someday reach the rank of Major.

While I am assigned to the United States Army Air Forces, I am commissioned in the Chemical Warfare Service.

The Chemistry that I learned at Loyola from Father Schmitt has helped me immeasurably.

Give my best regards to Father Bunn, Father Jacobs, Ed. Doehler and Joe May. Keep those GREYHOUNDS coming; they help a lot.

Sincerely,
Edward J. McClure, '38

Transportation Problem Solved

A bit of practical wisdom which must be passed on from the physics lecture room was offered after a long discussion by Fr. Kirsch on the principles of motion.

"Every force has an equal and opposite reaction," he stated, "and when a horse pulls a cart, the cart is pulling back with the same force as the horse is pulling forward."

Then came the revolutionary theory which we reprint exactly as it was offered: "Hitch up the horse to the cart; get the horse headed in the opposite direction from that in which you want the cart to go. According to physics this will make the cart pull back with an equal force. When it starts to do this, quickly unhitch the horse and the cart will pull itself directly to the desired place." (Of course if the horse is quick enough, he can jump into the cart and ride.)

Fare and Warmer

A crisis in juvenile delinquency was reached the other day at Bedford Square when Charles (Kangaroo) Meagher and a much-too-experienced conductorette were haranguing over the required remuneration for transportation.

"Come, come now; how old are you?" pleaded the representative of the B. T. C., as she surveyed the lone five-cent piece in the box.

"Going on eleven," replied Charlie in his best falsetto.

"Well this is one eleven you're not going on," replied the fair young thing, and nonchalantly tossed Charlie into the trash container.

Freshman Class Enters Sept. 11, Dean Announces

A new Freshman Class will be admitted to Loyola College on September 11, it was announced by the Rev. Joseph A. d'In villiers, Dean of Loyola, at an interview last week.

The purpose of beginning a new class at this time, the Dean asserted, is to accommodate high school students who will graduate from the public high schools of Baltimore during the latter part of August. It is believed that the new class will also make it possible for several veterans who have been discharged from the armed forces because of physical disabilities, to begin classes immediately instead of being forced to wait for the regular February Class.

Schedule Is Unique

The schedule which has been worked out for the September Freshmen is quite different from that of any previous Freshman Class. During the term from September to February, the members of the new class will concentrate on English and Mathematics.

They will take eight periods of Mathematics and six periods of English a week, including public speaking and two periods of physical training.

In February, the Freshmen, then in their second term of the first year, will take Inorganic Chemistry and English with the February Class and the remainder of the subjects with the Sophomore Class.

Will Finish In Two Years

This class is expected to graduate in September, 1946, under the two year schedule which has been in existence at Loyola since July, 1943.

Although it is of course too early to estimate the number expected to begin in September, enrollment is now open, and several have already signified their intentions to join the new class.

This is the first September enrollment since 1942 when one of the largest Freshman Classes in the history of Loyola began classes.

Term Ends October 11

The regular term for the classes attending Loyola at present will end on October 11 after a six-day period of examinations.

P. T. Is A Great Idea . . . But . . .

The new P. T. program was met with varied emotions by the student body. The following comments were noted by our roving reporter:

The Duke: "This will HAVE to go!"

Kemp: "I tried it, — once."

Krager (he is exempt): "I think it's a fine thing."

Cashen: no comment (he couldn't be found).

Simms: "I get brown dirt in my red hair."

Meagher: "Goodie, we'll all be kangaroos."

Lalley: "My muscles were stringy once, now they're hard."

Rehak: "I wish I had time to take it too."

Locke: "We Navy men are used to this sort of thing."

I.R.C.Schedules Varied Program

Loyola's International Relations Club, presided over by its new chairman, Joseph Gessler, is looking forward to a year of interesting and timely discussions.

Because not all colleges are holding summer sessions the club will not be able to hold joint meetings with the other colleges in Maryland and vicinity, as they have in the past, until they reopen in the fall.

To Discuss Far East

The intervening time, however, will not be wasted, for the club plans to hold weekly meetings, at which the members will discuss the problems of peace in the Far East, a topic which they will present at the Middle Atlantic States Regional Conference sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment Society for International Peace.

The conference will be held in the early part of November at Maryland College in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Participate In Model League

The International Relations Club intends also to participate in the model United Nations Conference under the auspices of the League of Nations Association. At this conference each college club represents a different nation.

Last year the conference was held at Bryn Mawr and the club represented the Union of South Africa.

Period Of Post-War Education For Returning Vets Will Be Based On Time Spent Under Arms

Fighting Alumni Merit Acclaim

Two former Loyola students were recently commended for their work in the Southwest Pacific theater of war. They were Second Lieutenant Bernard F. Goldberg, '43, and Corporal Paul R. Wilhelm, ex. '44, both of the Marine Corps.

Corporal Wilhelm served with the famous First Marine Division for 27 months in the Southwest Pacific. He has been presented with the Presidential Unit Citation, and Division Commander Commendation.

Corporal Wilhelm is a graduate of Calvert Hall High School and attended Loyola College until his enlistment in the Marine Corps in 1942. He was home on furlough recently.

Organized Entertainment Unit

Lieutenant Goldberg was praised for his work in organizing and directing an entertainment group known as the "Pacific Panics." "Pacific Panics" got its start on board a ship plowing the waves between a United States port of embarkation and a South Pacific island. The ship was crowded and, with no entertainment, the troops were tense and bored.

At the suggestion of Lieutenant Goldberg, an entertainment group comprised entirely of enlisted men was formed.

Four Shows Given Daily

"It made such a hit with the officers and enlisted men," said Lieutenant Goldberg, "that we gave four shows—two for the officers and two for the men."

When the troops reached their destination, the show was previewed by Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and American Red Cross officials. It was so well liked that Brigadier General David L. Brewster, U. S. Marine Corps, ordered that the entertainers remain as a group and tour advanced areas entertaining Allied troops there.

Outstanding Basketball Player

Lieutenant Goldberg graduated from Calvert Hall High School and Loyola College. While at Loyola, Barney was a member of the championship basketball team of 1942-43.

In addition to being active in basketball, Goldberg played football, soccer, various types of intramural athletics, and was on the track team.

Actors, Orators Planning Events

In elections held at the end of the last semester, the Bellarmine Debating Society selected Robert E. Hiltz, President, and the Loyola Dramatic Club chose as its next president, Thomas Garvey.

The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., moderator of both organizations, stated that by September he hoped to have classes started in the arts of scenery making, lighting effects, and make-up. Due to the lack of suitable plays with all male characters, the club invites students to bring in original skits and plots for short plays.

Future Plans Discussed

At the first meeting of the Dramatic Club the possibility of producing several one-act plays during the forthcoming semester, was discussed. If sufficient materials are available, the club intends to produce a full length play, and a "Revue" consisting of a series of skits or short plays.

Because of the war, the Bellarmine Debating Society has decided to refrain from holding any inter-collegiate debates, but it will, however, engage in round table discussions with various schools.

Symposium To Be Presented

Discussions on the topic of "The Catholic Viewpoint on the Post-War World" will be presented by the club to Holy Name Societies, Catholic organizations, and similar organizations throughout the city.

Later in the year, other topics which hold the interest of the members may be brought out for discussion, but until other plans are arranged "The Catholic Viewpoint on the Post-War World" will be the topic of particular interest.

Other Officers Elected

John J. Kernan was elected Vice-President of the Bellarmine Debating Society, and John H. Plunkett was chosen as Secretary. The Dramatic Club selected Francis Locke as Vice-President, and Robert Longley as Secretary.

Any members of the armed forces of the United States whose education was interrupted by induction into military service, shall receive at the conclusion of the war a period of education at the expense of the Government. The period of education shall depend entirely on the length of time the veteran spent under arms.

This is the essence of the educational provisions of the 'G. I. Bill of Rights' recently made law by the 78th Congress. This bill contains what are beyond a doubt the best provisions that any nation has ever made for her returning soldiers and sailors.

May Choose Own College

It is considered by the law, that any person who entered the armed forces before he was 25 years old, has had his education interfered with by this military service. Under the provisions of the law, the veteran may choose any college in the United States to complete his education.

While pursuing a course at an approved institution, the veteran shall receive in addition to all college fees, a subsistence allowance of fifty dollars per month if single, and seventy-five dollars per month, if with dependents.

He will receive this allowance during regular holidays or leave, not exceeding thirty days during a calendar year.

Time To Depend On Service

The length of time which the veteran may attend the college at government expense will depend on the time which he spent under arms, exclusive of any time spent in an Army or Navy sponsored College Training Program.

The veteran may file his application with the Veterans Administration through the approved educational or training institution which he has selected.

Once he has been accepted by the college of his choice, the veteran may elect his own course of studies. This may be a complete full-time education or a refresher or other special course of the type that is being offered by Loyola's School of Adult Education.

Requirements Listed

The requirements of eligibility for the Vocational Rehabilitation Program are these:

(1) That the person served in the active military or naval service on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the war.

(2) That the person has been discharged or released from the active military or naval services under conditions other than dishonorable.

(3) That the person's education was impeded by reason of his entrance into service, and

(4) That the person shall have served ninety days or more, exclusive of any period he was assigned for a course under the Army or Navy College program, or the time he was assigned as a cadet or midshipman at one of the service academies.

Disabled Veterans Plan

The provisions for the educational rehabilitation of veterans who have been wounded in the present war are slightly different.

During the period of training for a veteran, disabled through active duty, the veteran receives a pension of ninety-two dollars per month if single and one hundred and two a month if married, with five dollars a month for each dependent child and an additional allotment in the amount of ten dollars a month for each dependent.

Owings Named P. T. Instructor

"Ashes to ashes, dust to dust. If you don't take P. T., your bones will rust."

This seems to be the theme song of Mr. Robert Owings, the new physical training instructor at Loyola College; but to more than one of our less brawny brethren, it sounds more like a swan-song.

Mr. Owings has been around the campus but two short weeks, but already he has made his presence known and felt. If you have seen the freshmen limping down to Bedford Square, you will know what is meant by the word 'felt.'

Trains Hopkins Men

Dividing his time between Johns Hopkins A. S. T. P. men and Loyola College, Mr. Owings seems to thrive on work.

Each P. T. period is planned. Ten minutes are allotted to each one to change into his sport togs.

The first twenty minutes are devoted to calisthenics. All calisthenics given are approved by the Army. However, at times the obstacle course is run instead of calisthenics. During the remainder of the period, the students play softball, volley ball or soccer.

Final Test To Be Given

At the end of September, Mr. Owings will give the final test, which consists of seven events that the Army gives its trainees.

The first of these tests is chin-ning, and the set-ups follow. The "Burpee" is the next test. For this the student starts in the position of a football lineman. Then he springs his feet back so that he is on his hands and toes. Immediately he resumes his original position and repeats the whole process.

Features 300 Yard Dash

In the fourth event, the "Russian Dance," the student starts in a squatting position with his hands on his hips. He then thrusts his right and left leg forward, rather slowly at first, then increasing the speed.

Push-ups and the hundred yard piggy-back race are next in the schedule. The final test is the three hundred yard dash. The first half of the run is to be covered at top speed, and the remaining yardage, any way possible.

Block L Votes Term Officers

The Block L Club of Loyola College, under the tutelage of Tim Parr, held its first meeting of the new term on July 26 to elect the remaining officers for the following term and to outline the activities which the club wishes to undertake.

Charles Meagher lead in the balloting for vice-president; Dan Feeney was elected secretary, and Sid Roche was chosen treasurer.

Organized In 1941

During the meeting, the president traced the history of the club and its requirements to the new members. Tim Parr said that the Block L Club was organized in 1941 by Franny Mueller to encourage the growth of athletics at Loyola and to form a bond between the present undergraduate athletes and the former athletes of Evergreen.

Block L To Hold Socials

The Block L head also stressed the importance of keeping both the intercollegiate and intramural athletic contests functioning during this year even though the small student body and Lefty's absence will seem to hamper their program.

He also stated that more socials will be held this term, possibly one every month.

Tars Torpedo Loyola Nine

A hard-hitting Navy nine defeated the Greyhounds at Annapolis. Paul Burdette, Navy's hurling star, allowed Loyola only five well-spaced hits.

Pitching Duel

In the first inning the Middies put the game on ice with a walk, an error, and Duden's long fly for a run.

Loyola's starting pitcher, Tim Parr, and Paul Burdette of Navy settled down to a pitching duel until the fifth inning when Navy collected two more runs.

Oriole Rookie Sparks Birds In 1944 Race

In a torrid race which will undoubtedly last right down to the wire, the other teams around the International circuit have agreed that the team to beat for the pennant are the pace-setting Baltimore Orioles.

One of the chief reasons for the Birds' marvelous surge to the top has been the sturdy catching of a nineteen year old, Sherman Lollar.

This young athlete, born in Fayetteville, Arkansas, on August 23, 1924, has always wished to play major league ball. If his fine work continues, his big time debut should not be very far distant.

Discovered By West

Lollar's baseball career started at thirteen, when he starred for an American Legion club in his home town. After three years in this league, he was signed by a semi-pro team at Pittsburg, Kansas.

At seventeen he entered the Kansas State Teachers College while still continuing his ball career. Here he attracted the attention of Stan West, who is currently pitching excellent ball for the Orioles.

Tryout With Orioles

Stan recommended Lollar to manager Tommy Thomas of the Orioles, and Thomas arranged a tryout for the youngster. Late in August of 1943, Sherman reported to the Baltimore club and gained some experience by catching twelve contests for the Birds near the end of last year's season.

During the off-season, the Orioles back-stopper secured a job in a defense plant in his home town, and in his free time enjoyed himself hunting and playing a little basketball.

In spring training this season, Lollar showed great possibilities of becoming a power hitter and has proven this fact so far this season by blasting out thirteen four-base clouts.

Four Homers In One Day

Lollar claims that his greatest thrill in playing baseball occurred on July 23, in a double-header against Toronto Maple Leafs, when he hammered out four round-trippers. In the initial league contest of this season, he also smashed out a home-run.

Although his batting average still hovers around .252, he is third on the Oriole squad for runs batted in, with 62.

Sherman is very fond of Baltimore, and he feels that the Baltimore Municipal Stadium is one of the best in the International League. Since he bats right-handed, the closeness of the left field wall is much to his liking.

Although Lollar has caught over 90 per cent of the Birds' games, he has never complained about being overworked. His formula for stamina demands fourteen hours of sleep a day.

Running With The Hounds

By Bill Meyer

For the sake of the freshman class, we will mention again that Loyola College does not field any football team in inter-collegiate competition. Football was abandoned in the middle thirties, chiefly because the Hounds were not contesting teams in their own class. They were dropping too many one-sided tussles to then top-notch colleges in the East, like Boston College, Western Maryland College, and Catholic University. Loyola did not have a big enough name in the football world, and could not attract stars to the college. The teams lacked reserve strength to combat the heavily populated squads of their opponents.

Every fall some of the students at Loyola naturally start to wonder why football was dropped, and since the absence of soccer, the students are all the more restless to engage in some sport from September to December.

When the intramural program was inaugurated at Loyola, touch football became the most popular of the sports since this national favorite game was scheduled during the months when no inter-collegiate sport was functioning, except cross country. Intramural football enabled more of the students to participate in this favorite game. Every student, with or without previous experience, could organize a team and battle for the coveted championship.

Again this year intramural touch football will be sponsored by the Athletic Department. The season opens early next month. Each team is composed of six men, three on the line and the remaining trio in the backfield.

At the end of the season in the semi-finals, the best team in the senior class will play the best in the junior year. Likewise, the sophomores and freshmen will settle their differences. The victors of these two games will clash the following week for the intramural football championship.

However, the question is: Will intramural football be a success as in past years, or will it die young, as some of the past intramural sports have?

Of the three major intramural sports which have been scheduled for the college since August of last year; i. e., football, basketball, and softball, only football lasted its scheduled season and its play-offs. Intramural basketball went strong until the last week of February, when the student interest began to lag and the play-offs were never reached. In the spring, the softball program even failed to materialize. Also at the beginning of the term in July, there was a call for a softball league. Again only a few teams were handed in, too few to organize any successful program.

Now at the brink of another intramural sport, the intramural set-up seems to be at its lowest ebb. It is true that you may miss the successful organizing efforts of Lefty, but his absence should not cause such a gradual decline.

So when the call comes in a few weeks to hand in the names of the squads, do not hand in only your team, but play every game that is scheduled, right up to the exciting play-offs. In this way the student body can prove to Lefty that all his efforts to teach you the value of sports in your education were not futile.

Cpt. McDonough Reported Safe In Balkans

Captain Francis J. McDonough, USAAF, of the class of 1942, was recently reported alive and well somewhere in the Balkan War Zone.

Captain McDonough was the pilot of a Flying Fortress which was reported missing on its 44th mission in the Italian Theater of operations on January 22.

Capt. Francis J. McDonough

Captain McDonough was awarded the Air Medal, with Oak Leaf Clusters, as a result of his participation in bombing missions in Sicily and Italy.

In 1942, Franny McDonough was a star player on the conference basketball team of that year.

Mueller Saves Injured Seamen

Ensign Francis Mueller, USNR, a graduate of Loyola College in January, 1943, has been recommended for a citation for saving the lives of two men in the English Channel on D-Day.

Franny Mueller, an engineer officer on an LCI in the naval amphibian forces, now engaged in operations in the European theater, dove into the Channel and successfully brought the men, one with a broken back and arm and the other with both legs broken, aboard his ship.

According to a letter received by his parents, Franny suffered no ill effects from his experience. He also said that the ship's doctor had assured him that the men would live.

Won Scholarship

After being graduated from Baltimore City College, Franny Mueller entered Loyola College when he won a two-year scholarship. He received a Bachelor of Science degree, magna cum laude.

While at Loyola, Franny was president of the athletic association and originated the Block L club. He also received letters in basketball and baseball, playing first base for the championship team. He was a member of the Alpha Sigma Nu, winner of the calculus award, a member of the Student Council, and a writer on the News Staff of THE GREYHOUND.

Signed As Oriole

After graduation, he was signed up as an Oriole by Manager Tommy Thomas, as a first baseman. Later he was farmed out to the York Baseball Club, of the Interstate League, where he played first base.

However, his baseball career was cut short when he was sent to Notre Dame University in the USNR V-7 class. He received his commission last September 22. Since that time he has served in the African theater; participated in the Anzio landing operations, and was in the assault forces for the invasion of France.

Reitz Made Petty Officer Upon Completing Training

Second Class Petty Officer Specialist Emil G. Reitz has been transferred to Philadelphia Navy Yard to await future orders. He completed boot camp at Bainbridge Naval Training Station around June 5, and then attended Physical Instructors School at Bainbridge.

After he finished his boot camp training, Lefty was selected to attend physical instruction school at the training station to learn to be a physical training instructor for the Navy.

Course Takes 8 Weeks

The physical instructors course lasts eight weeks. Upon graduation, Lefty was given a Second Class Petty Officer Specialist A (Athletic) rating.

This physical instructors school, which is the only one of its kind for Navy training in the United States, prepares the petty officer to conduct courses in calisthenics for training the enlisted men.

In the school the future teachers are taught the correct method of giving exercises, and the length of time to give these exercises in order that they will do the most good. They are also taught the different grips and holds by which a seaman can defend himself.

Limited Number Selected

Only a limited number of men are selected to attend this school to be taught how to lead and train physically the new recruits, who come into the different Naval Training Stations all over the country.

Before entering the Navy last March, Lefty was Director of Athletics at Loyola College for the past eight years. During this time he coached the basketball team and the baseball squad, in addition to directing physical training classes and directing the intramural sports.

Came To Loyola In 1936

When he first came to Loyola, in 1936, athletics were at a standstill. Football had recently been dropped from the College's roster, and all other sports were at an all time low. Immediately he took a profound interest in the college, and began to build up a well organized system of athletics. He took over the coaching reins of the baseball team, which has won the Mason-Dixon Crown for the past three consecutive years, and the basketball squad, which won three tournament championships under his tutelage.

He was the president and organizer of the Mason-Dixon Conference which is represented by twelve colleges in the states of Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia, and Maryland.

When the United States entered the present war and physical training was to be stressed in American Colleges and Universities, Lefty supervised the building of an obstacle course on the campus to comply with military authorities who ordered that all students be given some physical exercise.

Was Graduated From Villanova

Mr. Reitz received his early education at Calvert Hall, where he starred in baseball, basketball, and football. He then attended Villanova College in Philadelphia where he received an A. B. degree.

While at the Pennsylvania institution, he was also outstanding in baseball, basketball, and football.

Lefty said on his last visit to Evergreen, in mid-July, that he did not know where he would be sent from the Philadelphia Navy Yard, but he thought that it would be somewhere in the United States where he would be a Naval Physical Instructor.

Lefty Transferred

A last minute flash to THE GREYHOUND informs us that Lefty Reitz has been transferred to Penn State College.

After arriving at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, Lefty was ordered to State College to train Navy V-12 students.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doepler, '30

INVITATION TO ALUMNI MEMBERS

The Alumni have not yet fully adapted themselves to year-round acceleration. For all but the most recent graduates, summer was a time for some relaxation and vacation. It is difficult for these Alumni of happier days to realize that classes are actually going on at Evergreen with the thermometer hovering around 95 degrees.

In past years Alumni activities ended with the closing of the scholastic year. Summer contacts, when made at all, consisted of meetings at resorts and on vacations. Under present conditions the possibility and value of summertime Alumni activities become apparent. Most of us are perforce spending our summer in close proximity to Baltimore and Evergreen. Through the columns of THE GREYHOUND we are informed of the activities,—academic, social and athletic, that are being kept alive by our year-round collegians. Alumni members have already shown their interest by occasional calls at the College during past weeks. As activities develop during the new semester we hope to see the familiar faces of more Alumni members at plays, dances and games. If possible there will be other activities specifically for the members of the Association. But until such plans are worked out by the Executive Committee, why not drop out to the College for an afternoon, see the boys in action, meet the Faculty, try your hand at tennis and go for a dip in the pool? Why not?

ALUMNI AND ADULT EDUCATION AT LOYOLA

Among the registrants in the current term of evening classes in Adult Education at Evergreen are a number of Alumni of the College. After years (more or less) of absence from Loyola's classrooms, they have come back for more. The buildings may seem strange; the forms are quite different from the desks and armchairs of former years; there may be an entirely new faculty; but the Jesuit education imparted is the same! It is an answer to the many requests of recent years for an opportunity to receive the Catholic liberal arts education in evening classes. Whether seeking degrees or not, all will find some courses of interest in the broad program now being offered. Among our friends are many who would be eager to take advantage of this opportunity if they but knew of it. Have you thought of taking a course in the Fall Semester? Have you spoken to your friends about the courses? Will you?

RECENT WORD FROM ALUMNI SERVICE MEN

The HONOR ROLL of Loyola Men is growing daily! In due time THE GREYHOUND will publish a revised service list. For the present, Alumni Doings will pass on a word about some of the men recently contacted.

Ensign G. J. Crowley is sailing the high seas but found time to write reminding his one-time history professor that he still intends to pay off on a lobster dinner that is long overdue. Jerry has been in touch with Alumni in other parts of the world, meeting Jack Bandiere in Italy and Rene Gunning in Africa. Says Jerry: "These Loyola men sure do get around."

Ensign William S. Bavis is numbered among the recent Alumni who have found time to drop a line to the Editor of Alumni Doings. Bill is learning all the intricacies of Sub-Chaser technique the while he is absorbing his share of Miami sunshine. Loyola's schedules are not so bad after reading Bill's: 8 hours of class per diem, 6 days a week. The best of luck to you, Bill, and we will look for you in Baltimore after you have learned all that they teach in Miami!

Ensigns Fritz and Leary, Barkley and Tony to their classmates, recently proved that pleasant things still happen in this war-weary world. Both began their service careers at Bainbridge as humble Navy "boots". Both had visions of shipping out as "gobs". Today both wear the Ensign's stripe and star. Barkley is in up-State New York, Tony at Princeton, N. J., for further study and training. Good luck to you, Ensigns!

Alpha Sigma Nu Elects Six New Honor Members

The annual reception of new members into the Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit Honor Fraternity, was held at Evergreen on June 11.

Those elected to the society were: Angelo A. Alece, Paul E. Hilmer, John J. Kernan, Terrence E. Burke, William A. Meyer, and Howard J. Strott. Immediately after the initiation, Strott was elected as new president of the society.

Other Officers Named

Richard H. Lerch, former president of the A. S. N., is now in the armed forces. William Meyer was elected vice-president and Angelo Alece was named secretary-treasurer.

The induction ceremonies were held in the Faculty Residence, and a buffet supper in honor of the new members followed. The keys of the fraternity were then presented to each one.

History Of The Society

The Alpha Sigma Nu Society was formed to honor students of Jesuit Universities and Colleges who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, service and loyalty to their College.

Loyola College joined the society in March, 1942. This is the fourth group to be elected since that time. The requirements include high scholastic average in all subjects and activity in extracurricular organizations.

Sodality Membership Required

For a Catholic student, membership in the Sodality during all undergraduate years is a requirement. After nominations by the members of the fraternity, candidates must be approved by the Dean and President of the College.

All of the new members were active in Loyola extracurricular societies. Alece is president of the Chemists' Club; Hilmer is active in the Sodality; Kernan is Feature Editor of THE GREYHOUND.

Among the members of the Junior class elected to the society, Burke now serving in the Navy, was Editor-in-Chief of THE GREYHOUND, Meyer is THE GREYHOUND Sports Editor, and Strott is Sodality Prefect.

Gessler holds two other presidential offices. He is president of the Mathematics Club and chairman of the International Relations Club.

'Mike' Molloy, new Junior Class president, is now beginning his second term as president of his class. He was also an officer in Freshman Year.

The officers were elected on July 28 from a list of seven nominees selected earlier in the week by the members of each class.

Candidates Listed

The candidates in the Senior Class were, beside those elected: John Kernan, Henry Eckhardt and Angelo Alece. The other nominees in Junior Class were: Thomas Garvey, John Plunkett and Howard Strott.

The elections were held in Room 104. Donald Giblin, president of the Student Council, presided over the meetings and the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., was the representative of the Faculty.

It is the duty of the class presidents to represent their classes in the Student Council and to manage the affairs which the class participates in as a whole. Usually the most important of these affairs is the dance sponsored by the class.

Molloy has announced that plans are now under way for the staging of the Junior prom. He also reported that the members of his class are now considering plans for publishing a Year Book.

Freshman Elections Held

The temporary elections of the officers of the Freshman Class were held early this month. The purpose of the election was to give the Freshmen someone to represent them during the period of hazing. A permanent election will be held later in the term.

It has been announced by the War and Navy Departments within the past few months that three alumni have been reported missing in action, one has been wounded, and another has been declared a prisoner of war.

The three men who are missing in action are: Captain Erwin W. Huber, Jr., USAAF, ex '42; First Lieutenant Howard T. Mattingly, Jr., USAAF, ex '43, and Second Lieutenant William J. Perkinson, USAAF, '42. Ensign Charles E. Williams, USNR, '43, was wounded, and Second Lieutenant George J. Murphy, USAAF, ex '44, is listed as a prisoner of the Germans.

Missing Over Austria

Captain Huber, according to the files of the International Red Cross, failed to return from a mission over Austria, and is presumed to be a prisoner in Germany. His wife, Mrs. Frances Huber, lives on Chestnut Avenue, Ruxton. After Captain Huber left Loyola College, he joined the Army Air Forces in 1940 and was stationed in Italy.

The second alumnus listed as missing, First Lieutenant Howard T. Mattingly, Jr., was graduated from Calvert Hall, where he starred on the ice hockey team. He spent two years in this College, after which he enlisted in the Air Corps.

Commissioned As Navigator

He took his training at Seldman Field in Monroe, Louisiana, as a Navigator; was commissioned a Second Lieutenant, and received his wings last August. In England, where he was stationed, he became Squadron Navigator, and for his fine service was awarded the Air Medal in March.

He has been missing since Easter Sunday of this year. His plane was last seen at 3:30 o'clock on Easter over the city of Kiel, Germany. Although he may be interned as a prisoner of war, he is officially listed as missing. Lieut. Mattingly's parents reside at 308 East 33rd Street.

Missing On Raid On Roumania

Missing also is Second Lieutenant William J. Perkinson, nephew of Mrs. Charles F. Perkinson, of 3712 Sequoia Avenue. Only a month after he had been overseas, Lieut. Perkinson, navigator of a bomber at an Italian base, was reported missing after a raid over Roumania on June 23rd.

Before entering Loyola, he was a student at Polytechnic Institute, from which he graduated in 1939. While at Loyola he was a member of The Sunpapers sports staff. Upon graduating from College, he immediately entered the service as an aviation cadet.

Wounded In Invasion

Ensign Charles E. Williams was wounded by shrapnel in action during the invasion of France. Ensign Williams was graduated from Loyola High School in 1939, and from Loyola College in 1943. He proved himself a competent baseball player both in High School and in College, playing on the Loyola College team which won the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship last year.

Commissioned At Northwestern
After he had completed his course at the Midshipman's School at Northwestern University, Ensign Williams was commissioned on June 30, 1943, and assigned to landing-craft duty.

Second Lieutenant George J. Murphy, a prisoner of war, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mur-
